

Workshop Qualifies for 3CE Hours

Sacred Counseling by Lee Richmond

Sacred counseling is not presented as religious counseling and does not represent any specific theology. It is counseling that “cares for the spirit” and as such is concerned with finding meaning and the passion that inspires. Both active and passive meditation techniques are interspersed throughout the workshop where small group dyadic and triadic experiences are offered. Short powerful readings from the world’s sacred literature are presented for study and finding their meaning and value within counseling situations. The purpose of this workshop is to help counselors and their clients find meaningful pathways to wellness.
